Speaker Biographies

Dr Graham Hill
Dr Graham Hill is a Criminologist and a subject matter expert in relation to the behaviour of child sexual abusers and non-familial child abductors/murderers. He is a former senior detective and was the founder and head of Behavioural Analysis at the UK Child Exploitation Online Protection Centre (CEOP). Graham’s investigative and research background gives him a unique perspective of serious sexual crimes against children. Dr Hill is a member of the British Society of Criminology and Visiting Research Fellow at Leeds University school of Criminology and Law.

Siobhan Pyburn
Siobhan is the founder of Beam Project; a social enterprise set up to help people understand child sexual abuse from a survivor-led point of view. As a survivor of abuse herself, Siobhan first shared her story in public at age 17. She has won two national awards for ‘exceptional community impact’ and now delivers training and presentations using her lived experience. She also releases weekly videos about abuse and recovery via her YouTube channel. Find out more: www.beamproject.co.uk

Jane Padmore
Jane joined Hertfordshire Partnership University NHS Foundation Trust in November 2014 and is the Executive Director Quality and Safety (Chief Nurse). Prior to this she worked in Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services in London, latterly in the National and Specialist Forensic Mental Health Services within which she provided assessment and treatment as well as expert opinion for court purposes for young people who sexually offend. She is a registered mental health nurse and has worked in adult, child and learning disability services. Her doctoral study investigated the mental health needs of young people in street gangs and she was awarded a Florence Nightingale Scholarship to investigate and develop treatment options for these young people.
